

Inspiring a Passion for Learning through Genius Hour

Motivation to Learn

Starts With A Driving Question

DQ's

- are Provocative
- are Open Ended
- go to the heart of a discipline or topic
- are challenging
- can arise from real world dilemmas that students find interesting

How do I know if it's a DQ?

- Is it open-ended (no one right answer)
- Is it challenging
- Is it realistic
- Is it complex
- Does it require a performance or artifact

Consider G.R.A.S.P.S. Task

- G – Goal
- R- Role
- A – Audience
- S- Situation
- P – Product/Performance
- S – Standards (Criteria for Success)

Example

Your task is

- To design and present a plan for a new playground at your school for K-1

Your team is

- A design agency (including an accountant, architect, presenter, PR rep., safety regulator, project manager)

Your audience is

- Administration, PTA, and Students of your school.

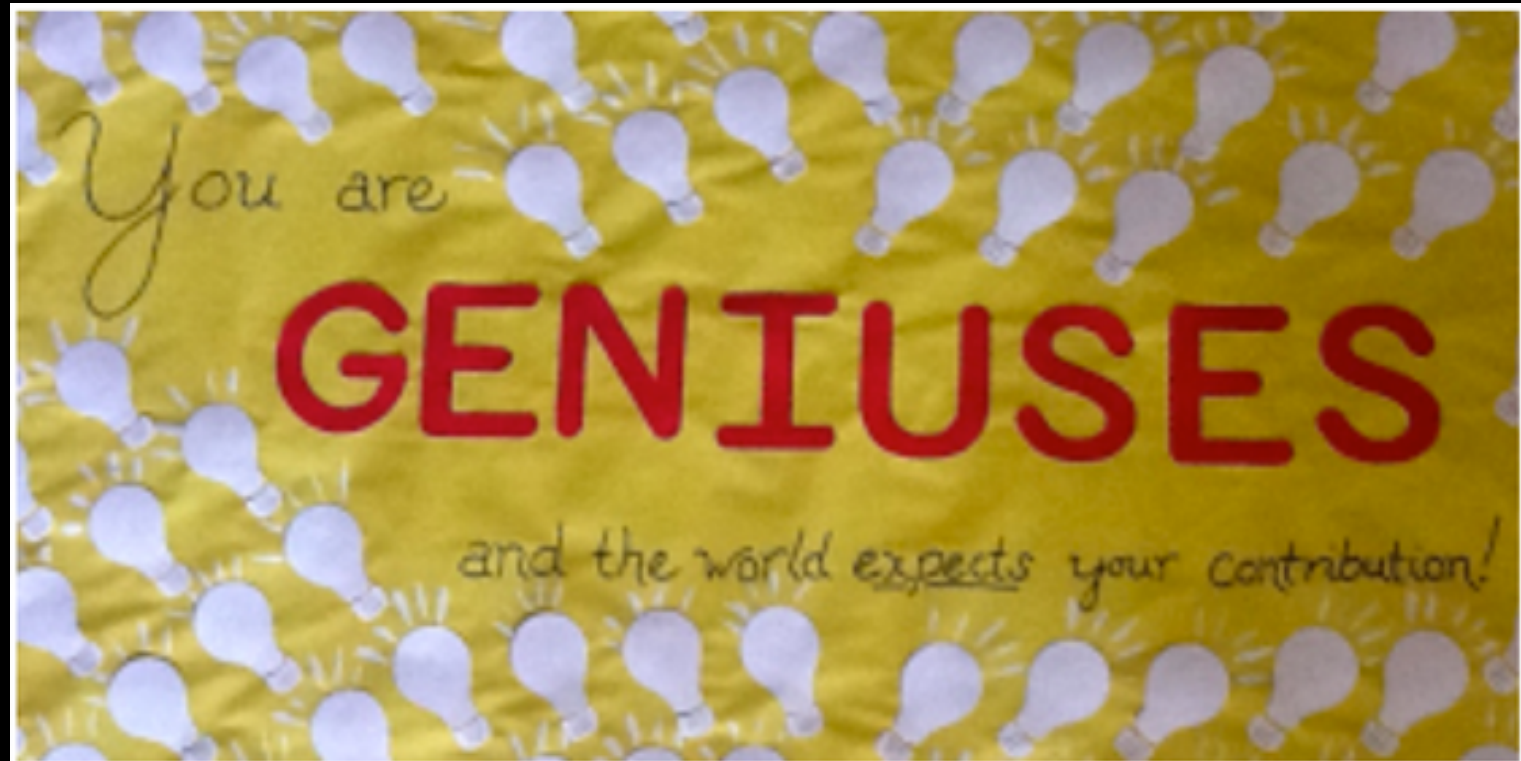

Your products are

- Create a design for the playground, a budget and a presentation to persuade the PTA, administration and students that your design should win out.

Criteria for success

- You must include elements to make it fun, safe and affordable.

Genius Hour LiveBinder

Get Inspired

Retrieved from <http://www.anchormedia.com/free-twitter-tools-you-should-know-about/>

#geniushour

Keep in Touch

Jill Hobson

jill.hobson@prometheanworld.com
@hobsonjill

Find resources at

<http://www.jillsboldvisions.com>

